Dr. Fine's last name is not a misnomer. He is an outstanding physician who not only is direct and kind, but:

- Improves planning for life's end
- Assists in analyzing the right time to let go of medical technology
- Addresses the possibility of a sweeping change in attitude by accepting death as a spiritual experience

Human condition tells us to run away at the end of life. However, there are alternative paths for consideration. Experts in the palliative care field:

- Assist patients and families in exploring options
- Offer planning tools to overcome challenges
- Bring healing and focus on comfort
- Meet goals and wishes of the patient
