CC Young hosts trailblazing journalist Jocelyn Dorsey for “She Believed She Could, So She Did annual women’s history celebration

DALLAS (Feb. 19, 2024) – In honor of women’s history month, CC Young will host Jocelyn Dorsey, Georgia’s first African American newscast anchor and community advocate. A pioneering news anchor and longtime mentor, Dorsey will share highlights of her professional story, insights on breaking barriers and embracing new opportunities, redefining aging, and thriving in later years. Her presentation will take place at The Point on the CC Young campus on Monday, March 24 from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Seating is limited. To RSVP visit ccyoung.org/events.

“For nearly a decade, CC Young has celebrated women’s history month and honored the achievements and contributions women of all backgrounds have made throughout the history of the United States,” said Brian Parman, director of The Point & Pavilion at CC Young. “We are thrilled to have Jocelyn join us this year and share her 45-year experience at WSB-TV in Atlanta and evolving perspective on aging as a time of growth and renewed purpose in the next chapter of life,” said Brian. At CC Young, we work to foster a vibrant, engaged community, and Jocelyn’s message aligns perfectly with this mission.”

Dorsey worked in television broadcasting for more than 45 years. During her tenure at WSB-TV she rose through the ranks as a successful newscast anchor for 10 years before being promoted to director of editorials and public affairs. Following her decades'-long career as a journalist and community leader, Dorsey retired in 2018 but remains dedicated to inspiring others. She continues to impact lives demonstrating that life after 55 is not about slowing down but about embracing new opportunities. Her visit to CC Young will focus on changing the perception of retirement communities — not as places of decline but as thriving environments for continued growth, connection, and purpose.

"Since childhood, I have been grounded in senior service and it is natural for me to visit CC Young, share my story and learn all CC Young is doing to serve their residents and the Dallas community," Dorsey said. "My father and uncle both experienced the challenges of dementia, and I witnessed firsthand the importance of quality care and a supportive environment. The CC Young spirit embodies the kind of vibrant, engaging community where seniors can thrive, and I'm excited to share my perspective on aging and inspire others to embrace this next chapter with enthusiasm and purpose."

An alumna of The Ohio State University, Dorsey has earned numerous accolades, including seven Southeast Regional Emmys for Editorial Excellence and induction into the Georgia Association of Broadcasters Hall of Fame. She was also the first African American inducted into the National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences Silver Circle. While her groundbreaking career as a Black woman in broadcast journalism is remarkable, Dorsey's current passion is in guiding others to live fulfilling lives at every stage.

Dorsey is involved in multiple nonprofits and holds seats on several boards including A.G. Rhodes, Sisters by Choice, Communities in School Atlanta, Thanks Mom and Dad Fund, Atlanta Victim Assistance and UNICEF. She is also a member of the School of Communications Advancement Board.
